“Delicate and pretty, it suggests Provence in full spring bloom, with gentle potpourri scents, brisk acidity, lavender and garrigue scents, precise strawberry and raspberry flavors, and a finish with real verve.”

“The use of 70% Grenache in this delightful dry rosé gives the aroma the berrylike fruit that makes for a fresh floral, and spicy wine.

The 30% Cinsault adds body so some of its succulence comes from slightly higher alcohol (13%). Versatile, so it works with almost any food.”
